As relationships within the book are tested, we witness fragilities emerge, echoing broader ideas about social structure. Through these interactions, What Should I Major In asks important questions: How do we define ourselves in relation to others? What happens when belief meets doubt? Even the quietest lines are infused with subtext, proving that the emotional power of literature lies as much in what is implied as in what is said outright. Importantly, What Should I Major In does not forget its own origins. Themes introduced early on—loss, or perhaps memory—return not as answers, but as evolving ideas. This narrative echo creates a powerful sense of coherence, reinforcing the book's structural integrity while also rewarding the attentive reader. It's not just the characters who have grown—it's the reader too, shaped by the emotional logic of the text. Ultimately, What Should I Major In stands as a reflection to the enduring beauty of the written word.
